King Saud University realizes the importance of human resources as a driving force for all construction and development processes in society. Therefore, the university has paid more attention to graduates, both male and female, by opening the Graduates Center in Jumada al-Akhir 1439 AH. It was launched to open communication channels and build an interactive, associative relationship between the university and its graduates to contribute to developing their knowledge and skills in cooperation with the public and private sectors..

Objectives

- Building a true partnership between the university and its graduates to achieve its vision of KSU2030.
- Enhancing belonging and loyalty to the university.
- Supporting graduates in the field of employment, training and career guidance.
- Cooperating with the private sector in implementing its programs and initiatives related to training, qualification and employment.
- Benefiting from the experiences of graduates after entering the labor market.
- Building an integrated database of statistics and studies related to graduates and the labor market.
- Raising awareness among graduates of the importance of their role in developing educational curriculum plans.
- Communicating with graduates through cultural and social activities.
- Providing a platform for graduates to raise their issues and aspirations.
- Encouraging graduates to submit their proposals and views on developing the center's plans in line with their needs.

Vision

Building a lasting interactive and collaborative relationship between the university and its graduates

Mission

Dedicating the graduates' sense of belonging and enhancing their participation by opening channels of communication and interaction with the university to contribute to developing their knowledge and skills, and developing the university's programs in line with the requirements of the labor market, in support of the mission, objectives and vision of the University

Accordingly, the Center developed various programs and initiatives to achieve the vision and objectives, therefore, this report presents the summary of the most significant programs and initiatives implemented during the academic year of 1440 / 1441 AH

Qualification and Training

Through the continuous cooperation of the Graduates Center with various entities in the public and private sectors, cooperation was made with several entities with the aim of activating the qualification and training process for male and female graduates in various qualification and training programs, in order to fill the gaps that were monitored in previous studies of the needs of the labor market, as the topics of the courses and workshops provided by the Graduates Center varied to include personal values, marketing, and personal planning to determine the appropriate career path, and prepare them for the labor market, as is explained later.

Misk Program for Supervision of University Preparation

This program aims to provide qualitative opportunities to university students and graduates to have an effective role in Misk University Preparation Program by providing support and guidance to secondary school students during the summer vacation.

STC Summer Training Program

The Graduate Center is keen to establish a purposeful partnership with the Saudi Telecom Company, through supporting the training program provided by the Saudi Telecom Company in partnership with Udacity. This program serves male and female students and graduates by providing distance courses that include practical application on real projects in three learning tracks: Predictive Analytics, Digital Marketing, and User Experience Designer.

General framework

Targets	Date	Place
University students and graduates	22/10/1441 AH for 7 weeks	Remotely

Organizing Body

It is worth noting that this training program includes two virtual sessions every week, each lasting 4 hours and held remotely. The student needs to commit to a period of 30-53 hours every week at least to obtain a certificate at the end of the program that enables him/her to enter the Nanodegree from (Udacity).

More than 6,000 male and female students (34% male - 75% female) applied for this program, 9,603 of whom applied from King Saud University. In addition, 90 male and female students were accepted into the program in general, 60 of whom were accepted from King Saud University, so that the university represents 66% of the acceptance rate.

STC Cooperative Training Program

As an extension of the Alumni Center's keenness to continue the purposeful partnership with the Saudi Telecom Company, the Saudi Telecom Company's cooperative training program was supported by nominating qualified male and female students for cooperative training. The nomination was made after communicating with the relevant colleges in each of the College of Engineering, the College of Computer and Information Sciences, the College of Law and Political Sciences, and the College of Business Administration, in order to benefit fruitfully from the proposed program.

General framework

Targets	Date	Place

Organizing Body

We note here that the program is still in the nomination and screening stage, and the Alumni Center is currently following up with the Saudi Telecom Company to identify the participants from King Saud University and collect feedback for follow-up and documentation.

Masari Program for a Better Future

Based on the Alumni Center's keenness to contribute and participate internally, highlight its effective role and offer its services to the beneficiary group, the Alumni Center participated in the exhibition accompanying the "My Path to a Better Future" program, which was held by the Deanship of the Joint First Year at King Saud University and aims to help male and female students in identifying appropriate specializations according to their academic and professional inclinations.

Initiative towards an aware graduate

Under the patronage of His Excellency the Minister of Education, Dr. Hamad bin Mohammed Al Sheikh, and as an extension of the “Towards an Aware Graduate” initiative, the Graduates Center organized the “Towards an Aware Graduate” event, which aims to prepare a graduate who is aware of his decisions and skills and knows how to employ them in choosing the appropriate academic and professional path for the labor market, to include all male and female students, parents, and those interested in the field of guidance and specialization.

Special Event Objectives

General framework

Targets

Common year and secondary school students

Date

29-30 Jumadah I 1441 AH

Place

Main lobby of the university city for female students

Participating parties

The number of registered students in the “Towards an Aware Graduate” event reached 558 students, while the number of attendees reached 247 students. In addition, the number of students who completed the assessment of interests and abilities reached 093 students, of whom 713 students attended the advisory sessions. After the event was over, a comprehensive report was prepared on the initiative and the statistics that were collected before and after the event, to conclude that the two biggest factors in the reason for specialization in undesirable fields are the student’s lack of awareness of his skills and his lack of understanding of his abilities. The results showed that there is a gap in the specialization process and the student’s understanding of his skills and abilities. This gap has led to the graduation of male and female students who are unaware of the labor market and its requirements, and who are not prepared for the challenges they will face when graduating from a field that does not match their aspirations.

In addition, increasing the transfer and withdrawal rate reduces the graduation rate, which negatively affects the efficiency of spending on students. Therefore, there is an urgent need to continue this initiative and improve the academic and professional guidance process, and link male and female students to the trends of the labor market to understand the most appropriate field for them before choosing a specialization at the end of the common year stage.

Initiative towards an aware graduate

High youth unemployment is a major development challenge across the Middle East, and this age group often lacks the skills employers need and the tools to make job-related decisions; Therefore, AMIDEAST and Citi Foundation proposed a training program to address this skills gap through cooperation with the Alumni Center to prepare a group of graduates for the program in order to obtain appropriate job opportunities for them after completing the program, in addition to internal training that qualifies them for the workplace. AMIDEAST will prepare participants to provide workshops in their communities. private, and focuses on personal development and professional decision-making that they have acquired themselves.

We clarify here that the program has included several stages.

1- Workshops were held on success skills, including English language and personal skills.

3-Followed by application in different workplaces; this enables the male and female student to acquire the skills of the training period as well as the skills of searching for a job.

2-Then, courses on workplace skills and information technology were offered.

4- The program concludes with a presentation of its achievements to fulfill the pledge and follow-up.

This program succeeded in providing training opportunities for 83 male and female students from King Saud University, including 82 females and 1 male.

Pioneers Initiative

The Graduates Center, in cooperation with the Deanship of Skills Development at King Saud University and Everzone Company, launched the "Pioneer" initiative, which aims to qualify male and female graduates for the public and private sectors, by helping them discover their inclinations and capabilities, identify the fields that suit them, and develop themselves according to the requirements of those fields.

General Objectives

Participating Parties

1- The number of targeted students from King Saud University was monitored at 421 students, while the number of targeted female students was 601 students.

3- 97 male and female students were nominated from the applicants to begin the guidance and counselling phase, which is a phase that includes guidance sessions towards the functional fields that suit them.

2- The program began with analyzing the personality of the applicant to know their tendencies and interests.

4- This is to complete vocational training later through several programs offered by the Deanship of Skills Development.

Monitoring and facilitating training and employment opportunities

Given the importance of the role of the Alumni Center in facilitating job opportunities for male and female graduates and building a sustainable financial future; The Center monitors training and development opportunities available in the public and private sectors and activates partnerships with various entities to increase the rate of employment after graduation for male and female graduates, through the job interview program, or by advertising the monitored opportunities and jobs through social media

Beneficiaries

Through this program, and in order for the Graduates Center to ensure the sustainability of the work and mutual benefits that serve graduates and the labor market, the recruitment process is documented with the relevant authorities to obtain information from graduates who have passed the recruitment stages and been appointed, in order to congratulate them in particular.

Project to unify the work and procedures of graduate units

The project was launched at the end of 1434 AH, and work was done on it to conclude with presenting its results in the first meeting with the graduates' units in the colleges, which was held on the morning of Sunday, 31-7-1441 AH. The meeting began with a speech by the Vice-Rector for Educational and Academic Affairs, Dr. Muhammad bin Saleh Al-Nami, in which he introduced the attendees to the Graduates Center, its importance, and the history of its establishment and opening by His Excellency the University President. He thanked the efforts made by the work team, starting with the supervisor of The center, its deputy, and the administrative work team. He also expressed the center's keenness in its policy and objectives to provide assistance to male and female students before they enter the university and until they graduate, and to link them to the university to develop their skills, performance, and thinking and find a suitable work environment. His Excellency explained the importance of this project in unifying procedures and policies..

This was followed by a speech by the supervisor of the Alumni Center, Dr. Anas bin Mohammed Al-Shaalan, in which he thanked the attendees and introduced the Alumni Center, the center's vision, goals and policies. His Excellency welcomed everyone's suggestions and the available support methods. He pointed out that the Alumni Center seeks, through its cooperation with the units, to monitor and facilitate job opportunities available to male and female graduates, and to communicate with employers to determine their views on graduates, in addition to communicating with graduates and identifying their needs, and strengthening ties with Graduates and leaders, as well as strengthening relations between university parties, and documenting by building a database for graduates, both male and female, and employers.

The Alumni Center realizes the importance of achieving the highest standards of quality in the policies and procedures of the work of the alumni units in the colleges, while documenting quality practices, including further simplification of work procedures to provide better service to the beneficiary segments in the college. Hence, the Center launched the "Unification of Work Policies and Procedures of the Alumni Units Project," which aims to create and unify work policies and procedures in the alumni units in the colleges to ensure highly efficient and equal results among the colleges.

Documenting links with graduates

After that, the Deputy Supervisor of the Graduates Center, Dr. Hiba Abdulaziz Al-Jubreen, spoke in a speech in which she thanked the attendees and explained the goal of the proposed policies in the guide, which is to unify the executive procedures for the work of the graduates units to enable university students to build self-competencies and help them choose the fields of rehabilitation, training and job opportunities that suit their skills and interests, through holding professional, skill-based and rehabilitation courses and training programs, and holding rehabilitation activities. For employment in the annual meeting, graduation ceremony, as well as continuous communication with graduates, both male and female, with the aim of strengthening their loyalty and deepening their sense of belonging, and communicating with employers and identifying their needs and visions. She also pointed out that the guide includes a detailed description of the tasks of the graduate units, the legal references and systems on which it is based, models of operational procedures, and models for surveying the opinions of graduates and employment agencies.

Through this project, a policy and procedures guide was created for the work of the graduate units in the colleges to activate the role of the graduate units in the colleges of King Saud University, to build a sustainable relationship between the Graduate Center and the graduate units in the colleges, and to identify the most important obstacles and opportunities that enhance cooperation in work between the center and the graduate units.

Alumni Center Meeting with Student Clubs

In order for the Alumni Center to activate a sustainable partnership with male and female students and build bridges of cooperation with the student clubs at the university, a meeting was held with the heads of the student clubs to discuss possible aspects of cooperation to serve the university's male and female graduates.

Organizing Body

During this meeting, approximately 40 male and female students attended to discuss possible areas of cooperation between the center and student clubs. The center's services for graduates and students about to graduate were highlighted, and club presidents' views on possible solutions to the challenges students face upon graduation were monitored.

Alumni Center's efforts to confront Corona pandemic (Covid-19)

During the Corona pandemic (Covid-19) of the second semester of the academic year 1441-1441 AH, male and female students who were about to graduate faced several difficulties regarding their training and graduation ceremony, in addition to the job opportunities they aspire to. Based on the social responsibility of the Alumni Center, the center carried out several campaigns and programs to confront this pandemic and mitigate its impact on male and female graduates of the year 1441 AH.

Facilitating communication with recruiters

Based on the Alumni Center's keenness to sustain the work and common benefits that serve graduates and the labor market, the Center has created a special mail for job applications. A database has also been built for employers who communicate with the Center to be updated with employment data according to the offered specializations in order to follow up on the employment process and facilitate joint cooperation with colleges in general to serve graduates, both male and female, and those who are about to graduate..

Corona virus awareness campaigns

As part of the efforts of the Ministry of Education and King Saud University to combat the spread of the Coronavirus (Covid-19), and with the aim of providing male and female students of the university with the necessary information and guidance to prevent it, the Alumni Center launched an awareness campaign through various communication channels to encourage the adoption of sound and preventive health habits.

Preparing employment statistics

During the Corona pandemic (Covid-19), the Alumni Center was keen to conduct a study and statistics related to the professional competence of King Saud University graduates in various specializations and to cooperate with the National Observatory to obtain accurate results and document them.

Documenting links with graduates

Congratulations campaign for the graduates of the year 1441 AH

In light of the Corona Virus (Covid-19) pandemic, and in support of the feelings of this year's graduates, the Alumni Center was keen to raise the loyalty of graduates by running a congratulatory campaign through all social and traditional communication channels, as the center launched on 25/08/1441 AH three Snapchat lens filters for the 65-95 batch of 2020 AD, with the aim of moral support for the graduates of King Saud University and sharing their joy of graduation

After that, the Alumni Center sent congratulatory cards accompanying their graduation certificates, which were delivered to their homes in cooperation with the Deanship of Admission and Registration.

We also cooperated with the College of Engineering to distribute a booklet on the graduates' journey at the college, to commemorate their memories and to offer them comfort during this period.

Documenting links with graduates

These initiatives resulted in the graduates expressing their joy, in addition to their moral support and continued social communication with them, and responding to their inquiries through all communication channels with the Alumni Center. For more details about the campaign, you can view the interview with the doctor supervising the Alumni Center on the news channel about the efforts of the university in general and the center in particular in overcoming the Corona pandemic (Covid-19), by clicking on the image

Launching electronic portal of Alumni Center

The Alumni Center at King Saud University contributes to building a permanent interactive, relational relationship between the university and its graduates and graduates with each other. Based on this, the center is working to launch the Alumni Center's electronic portal at the university level. Which aims to build bridges of communication with graduates, both male and female, and employers, and to build an interactive environment that motivates graduates, both male and female. Through this portal, the center will be able to build bridges of communication with graduates and build a database of graduates and employers to help them in employment and to benefit from their opinions in developing educational programs

Launching second edition of "Towards an Aware Graduate" initiative

After achieving great success in launching the initiative "Towards an Aware Graduate", which was confirmed through the indicators of the results of this initiative, the second edition of the initiative will be launched, which aims to prepare a graduate who is aware of his decisions and skills, and knows how to employ them in choosing the appropriate academic and professional path for the labor market..

Launching electronic portal of Alumni Center

At the beginning of the new year 1441-1442 AH, the permanent program for career and professional development will be launched. It aims to develop male and female graduates to enter the labor market and raise their professional efficiency, through intensive training and providing appropriate support; this is done through advisory and training sessions presented by the most prominent human resources specialists and consultants in the private and public sectors.

Real Estate Training - Fruitful Opportunities

In cooperation with the Saudi Real Estate Institute, a number of specialized training programs will be organized that aim to develop and raise the cognitive and cultural level of individuals wishing to work or working in the real estate market, presented by experts specialized in the economic and real estate field, as these programs contribute to raising awareness of the systems and legislation of the Saudi real estate market and its development and organization, as well as helping job seekers to find new job opportunities in light of the increasing demand from parties in the real estate market for specialists from Sons and daughters of the homeland.
